Editor's Note:
An article in this issue, ‘A Promethean Philosophy of External Technologies, Empiricism, & the Concept’ by Ekin Erkan (Media Theory 4.1: 87-146), originally published on 2020-11-09, was retracted, corrected and republished on 2021-11-12 following a post-publication complaint which led to a review that determined the published text contained a small number of sentences that i) had unacceptable similarities to other work and ii) were unreferenced. Because the journal’s boards were not in a position to determine if this was accidental or intentional, and because the scope of the impacted text was considered insufficient to warrant either retraction or complete removal, the decision was taken to republish a corrected version of the article. The disputed passages have now been removed from the version of record.